WELCOME

We wish to extend a cordial welcome to the new members, who have joined the growing circle of readers of the Law Review.

We also wish to extend a cordial welcome to our former readers who have remained in the circle, many of whom have been loyal to the Law Review since its beginning.

We wish to extend an invitation to our large body of readers, to express their views upon any subject of the law. It is the purpose of this medium to serve you.

There is much room for sound, intelligent progress in the great field of law. Perhaps your idea, embodied in the law, will create speedier justice. Perhaps you have chanced upon some topic which you deem of interest to the bench and bar.

We can be of service to you only to such an extent as you co-operate with us. Permit us to be of service to you members of the bench and bar in this great state of ours, Wisconsin.
